

Thou – replaces “you” when it is the SUBJECT OF A SENTENCE. VERBS after “thou” usually end in “-st” or –est”

You have a lot of nerve saying that! Thou hast a lot of nerve saying that!

You know how to make people laugh. Thou knowest how to make people laugh.

Are you a good student? Art thou a good student?

Thee – replaces “you” in all other places, AFTER verbs and prepositions (to, for, after, etc.)

I give you my heart.

I give thee my heart.

This letter is for you.

This letter is for thee.

I will bring this to you tomorrow.

I will bring this to thee tomorrow.

Thy – replaces “your.”

This is your pencil.

This is thy pencil.

Thine – replaces “yours.”

Is this messy binder yours?

Is this messy binder thine?

Ye – replaces “you” when it is addressed to more than one person.

Students, you are too loud!

Students, ye are too loud!

*Complete the following sentences with you, yours, or your.

1. _____ have hurt me.
2. I have never lied to _____.
3. Why don't _____ love me?
4. I have suffered great pain for _____.
5. Please take this, so it will always be _____.
6. _____ have written this letter, for it is _____ handwriting.
7. Will _____ all promise to do _____ homework?

*Complete the following sentences with Thou, thee, thy, thine.

1. _____ hast done me wrong.
2. I have never lied to _____.
3. Why dost _____ not love me?
4. I have suffered agonies for _____.
5. Please take this, so it will always be _____.
6. _____ hast written this letter, for it is _____ hand.
7. Wilt _____ all swear to engage in _____ labors?

When you are done, read each pair of sentences aloud, with feeling!

*Complete the following sentences with you, yours, or your.

*Complete the following sentences with Thou, thee, thy, thine.

1. Poor fool, I feel sorry for _____.
2. I give _____ this jewel, as a gift.
3. _____ do not know what I have suffered.
4. It is only _____ love that I want.
5. I will make a drawing of _____.
6. Have _____ ever wanted something so much?
7. If these feelings were _____, what would _____ do?
8. If only _____ love were as steady as mine, _____ would feel the pain that I do.
9. _____ know how much I value _____ wisdom.
10. This is _____ fault!
11. That is why I love _____.
12. I challenge _____ hatred! I will win _____ heart!

13. I will give my heart to _____, if _____ want it.

1. Poor fool, I can only pity _____.
2. I give _____ this jewel, as a token.
3. _____ dost not know what I have suffered.
4. It is only _____ love that I desire.
5. I shall fashion a portrait of _____.
6. Hast _____ ever felt these pangs of desire?
7. If these emotions were _____, what wouldst _____ do?
8. If only _____ love were as constant as mine, _____ wouldst feel the anguish that I do.
9. _____ knowst how well I esteem _____ wisdom.
10. This is _____ doing!
11. That is why I love _____.
12. I defy _____ derision! I shall capture _____ heart.

13. I give my heart to _____ if _____ desirest it.

When you are done, read each pair of sentences aloud, with feeling!